"International Issue"

ADVANCE ANNOUNCEMENT: "Publication" of this "International Issue" of the Magazine will be announced by the Trumpet, followed by the Color Guards and Color Bearers carrying all the Flags under the Stars and Stripes, and giving their messages in person.

Evening Program or any other famous periodical—but here in Winter Park they will step forward in the flesh and give their messages in person.

World War Mr. Mott was General Secretary of the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. and for his effective measures in relieving conditions in prison camps he was decorated Knight of the Legion of Honor by France. Dr. Mott has written many books expressing the world mission of Christianity. His optimism in 1900 when he wrote "Evangelization of the World in This Generation" was not lost by the war that shook the world in 1914, nor did the Nazi menace shake his faith in 1935 when he wrote: "Cooperation and the World Mission".

LAEL LAIRD

The fact that the American public is the best informed on the war and conditions in foreign countries is due largely to the correspondents of our newspapers and magazines who do not hesitate to go right into the thick of action and stay until they have learned all there is of interest. Lael Laird is a correspondent who has been in the foreign service of the magazine "Time", and her information comes from contact with the actual conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bocque, of Passport Avenue, have had their daughter, Mrs. Robert Dickson, III, of Cherry Chase, Mo., with them for an extended visit. Mrs. Dickson, whose husband is a colonel in the Navy, was stationed at Hollywood, Fla., and is expected to go to Washington, D. C., where they expect to be located.

Mrs. Robert Clark and young son, Robert, Jr., are arriving today from Cleveland to spend several weeks with Mrs. Clark’s parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Curtis, of 847 E. New England Avenue. The Curtises have purchased the property of the late Miss Mary Leonard.

Mrs. John Bocque, of Atlanta, formerly of Washington, D. C., has been the guest recently of Miss Doris Bingham, of Glenridge Way. Mr. Bocque is head of the Federal Defense Housing project in the South. Miss Bingham’s father, Mr. William B. Bingham, well-known retired business man of the Middle West, passed away at their home here in November. A niece, Sally Morris of Chicago, is spending the winter here with Mrs. Bingham.

The Rev. J. H. Green and Mrs. J. H. Green of Newton, Mass., have taken a house on Antonette Avenue for the balance of the winter. This is their first season here. Dr. Foster is the head of the Pollock Foundation and is a former president of Reed College, Portland, Oregon.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Cornish are occupying their new home, 1460 Sunset Drive, on Lake Wilbur, which was completed last July. They spent the summer at their Northern home, which was once the Old Shaker meeting house in Shaker Village, Harvard, Mass.

Mr. John M. Houston, son of Mrs. John L. Houston, of Victoria Avenue, is now in the army, taking basic training at Camp Grants. Mr. John writes that although the schedule is strenuous, he “can take whatever they hand out, and finds the life there most interesting.”

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Taber Commons and their four children, Carol, Elizabeth, Charles, and William, of Duxbury, Mass., have returned for another season and are again at the Barbour Apartments on Swope Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Howson arrived yesterday from Bronxville, N. Y., to make a visit of several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barbour of Interlachen Avenue.

Mrs. Jeanette Genius arrived this week from New York to visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Stone, of 457 E. New England Avenue. The Rev. William E. VanHouten of Rahway, New Jersey, to make a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Howison’s parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howson, of Williamstown, Mass., are at the Virginia Inn.

Mrs. Carl D. Knight, of Westminster, Mass., has returned for another season and is again at the Barbour Apartments on Swope Avenue.

Brief Sketches of the Magazine Contributors

CLAUDE PEPPER
Florida’s Senator Pepper is generally regarded as being very close to the White House. Many of his public statements have been regarded as trial balloons sent up by President Roosevelt to see how the country would react to new policies. More recently, however, Mr. Pepper has taken an apparently independent stand against bureaucracy in Washington and has been critical of methods which were charged with politics rather than patriotism. While strongly in support of Roosevelt New Dealism, Mr. Pepper is not a radical and he clings to the old-fashioned American theories of work and saving. In choosing to discuss conditions to follow the war, Senator Pepper will doubtless divide some of the political tenets which stem from the best tradition and won the confidence of the peoples of those islands in our protection over them. He was Assistant Secretary of State in charge of negotiation of American trade agreements from 1923 to 1927 and was a member of the Board of Foreign Service Personnel.

BARONESS VAN BOECUP
Baronesse Collette Van Beugn, of France, visiting lecturer at Rollins College this season, said in a recent speech before the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce, “France’s part in this war has been making the Germans believe, for two and a half years, that we would collaborate with them. Every Frenchman witnessed all kinds of miseries to keep up this deceit, and to give time to America and the Allies to prepare for the invasion of North Africa.” The Baroness explained that by a pseudo-collaboration France protected its southern part, enabled the French generals to leave for North Africa and the Allies to prepare for the invasion of North Africa. “The Baronesse Van Beugn had a profound influence on the French people during the war emergency. With the invasion of Greece by Italy, Miss Carr and her associates placed their services at the disposal of the government. She returned to her home in this country when Americans were compelled by the occupying authorities to leave Greece.

FENNY DRINKWATER
Daughter of Britain’s famous playwright, John Drinkwater, this young English girl is a refugee from London. With her aunt, Miss Gwyn-Jeffreys, Penny Drinkwater crossed the Atlantic in constant danger of submarine attack and has found a refuge in the home of President Hamilton Holt of Rollins. She is taking a leading part in the play “Bird in Hand” written by her father, which is being presented at the Arcade Russell Theatre.

M. JEAN BRUCHESI
M. Jean Bruchesi, Under-Minister of the Province of Quebec in Canada, and Mme. Bruchesi, are distinguished visitors at Rollins during Founders’ Week. The Canadian diplomat and his charming wife, have made the trip to Winter Park especially for the formal opening of the exhibit of 400 pictures, in which he acts as a minister of good-will and understanding with a definite purpose— that of solving problems in human relations. Through his handling of the situations, Mr. Hersholt in his role as a country doctor usually succeeds in re-uniting lovers, calming disturbed mothers and generally becoming the beloved hero in the end.

ALICE G. CARR
Alice G. Carr, Near East Foundation Director of public health in Greece, has found a welcome here for Winter Park people last winter sent a generous gift of money to the Foundation after hearing Miss Carr’s stirring appeal at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Alberew Shaw.

A graduate of Antioch College and Johns Hopkins School of Nursing, she went to the Near East in 1917 with the first medical unit of Johns Hopkins Hospital, and except for one or two brief furloughs has been in Europe and Asia ever since. She has been decorated three times by the Greek Government, was the subject of a chapter in Jerome Keiley’s “Americans All Over” and an article in the November 1938, issue of “Reader’s Digest.”

During the last ten years she has directed the health program of the Near East Foundation and has led a large part in the great service rendered the Greek people during the war emergency. With the invasion of Greece by Italy, Miss Carr and her associates placed their services at the disposal of the government. She returned to her home in this country when Americans were compelled by the occupying authorities to leave Greece.

MANY ENCORES FOR TALENTED ARTISTS

Miss Mabel Ritch, contralto, Katherine Braun Carlo, pianist, Alphonse Carlo, violinist, and Morton Schoenfeld, accompanist, presented a program at the final recital of the Faculty Series last Friday night which was a tribute to their audience as well as a test of their own talent. There was no concession to the superficial in this offering, which had the Franck Sonata in A Major for violin and piano, and a group of five of Hugo Wolf’s most captivating song pictures as the high lights. Their audience evidenced its increasing interest as the program progressed and definitely showed its approval by enthusiastic demand for many encores at the close.

Miss Ritch was a picture of regal loveliness in a gown of American beauty satin, and her unaffected manner and evident absorption in the interpretation of her songs made us forget the restraint required of a stage performer. She was in good vocal estate, especially in her Wolf songs, in which tonal effects were so deftly merged into emotion and dramatic significance as to leave no room for criticism. In Schoenfeld’s “Nacht und Traum,” however, the mystical quality seemed to escape both the singer and her excellent accompanist, Mr. Schoenfeld, who gave a rather ponderous background rather than the shadowy atmosphere suggested by the text.

Mr. Carlo has won an enthusiastic following in Winter Park this season for his sound musical assets. His tone is a delight. It sings with consummate perfection and definitely showed its approval by enthusiastic demand for many encores at the close.

STUDENT FLAUTERS IN “BIRD IN HAND”

Excellent dramatic entertainment is offered in the Founders’ Week production of John Drinkwater’s intriguing comedy, “Bird night of the Annie Russell Theatre in Hand”, which opened Thursday. The Rollins Student Players under the expert direction of Donald S. Allen have made themselves very popular this season and the large audiences which attend their plays are inspiring the collegians to their best effort.

Young Penelope Drinkwater, daughter of the English playwright, added keener interest, and a heavy demand for seats is shown by enthusiastic demand for many encores at the close.

Florida This Summer?

You know how chilly it is up North, generally until June. You can’t really depend on warm, sunny days before July. And you can’t travel much this year, either, remember gasoline? Why don’t you stay in Florida?

If you’re not in perfect health, consider Holiday House. A private sanitarium, built and managed like a fine, small hotel, and serving the choicest food (yes, we manage to get it, somehow, for sick folks)—big, airy rooms, right on the north side of Lake Lorna—pleasant atmosphere, including experienced graduate nurses—where could you find more comfort?

References from right here in Winter Park or Orlando or many places up North. Call Mrs. Reehl, Orlando 4056, or visit us, any time. We’re filled up right now, but a little later you may be able to reserve a choice room.

The Winter Park Ration Board will be discontinued if this community does not raise the funds to pay its expenses. This is the plain truth which we have from headquarters. If we lose our local Board we will be doomed to spend a large part of our time, we and our friends and employees, waiting in line at Orlando. The Board can be kept in Winter Park if citizens are alive to their own interest. The matter should be the constant subject of discussion and action until we raise the money needed. This is our own "misery" and we are responsible for its redress if we raise the money needed...

VALENTINE PARTY

AT VIRGINIA INN

There was no ceiling on the fun at the annual Valentine Party which Manager Jack Hennessy of the Virginia Inn gave his guests and their friends last Saturday night at the Virginia Inn. There was the customary spirit of good-natured fun which made the whole evening one to be remembered. Mr. Joseph C. Lincoln's birthday, which was celebrated as usual with "Mr. Jack" leading everybody singing "Happy Birthday to You", brought the appreciative response from the author that he "wouldn't mind being left out of any of the old jokes."

The evening's program included some pretty dancing by two Elver school youngstas and then a novelty "Quota" which made a big hit. A brief musical program followed in which Lucia Hammond, soprano, sang two groups of songs, accompanied by Miss Sally Hamilton, and Alphonse Carlo, violinist, played with Mrs. Cavlo accompanying him. The famous Virginia Inn Minstrels were found to have suffered only in magnitude. The line-up was reduced to two men in blackface, Jack Hennessy and Tom Kennedy, with Wallace Show as interlocutor and vocalist, but they more than held their own in efficiency for the missing men. The old jokes never got a bigger hand. In fact "Mr. Jack" has been told by some of his patrons that they don't want him to leave out any of the old ones. Many of the guests were involved in the jokes and enjoyed the "spooking."

The season would not be complete without "Mr. Jack's" Valentine Party. If you plan to build, choose your home site now. "Sicilian Shores and Isle of Sicily" on the North Side...

ART AN ADVENTURE

By Andre Smith, Director of the Research Studio, Medallion

A few years ago the "American Artist" published an article about the Research Studio under the heading of "An Insanitorium of Art." This title was used with my approval and came originally from a gallery visitor with a super-conservatve attitude toward art, a man whose art awareness had come to dead standstill around the year 1900 and who since then has disdained every new movement which in any way disturbed his placid ignorance of the changes that are taking place. It even annoyed him when I told him that I, like his description of our organization in such as I knew from experience that only by "going wild and doing things" can an artist effect that creative release which leads to new forms of expression.

Ours is indeed a laboratory of art, where experimentation is constantly encouraged among the artists who are awarded fellowships for a period of five months during the winter. Our exhibitions on the whole are selected to show the trends of contemporary art as well as the results of the experimental work done by our resident artists. And yet now and then, for enter- tainment of our more conservative gallery visitors, we put on an exhibition that demands of the spectator nothing more than a pleasant awareness and fairly good eyesight.

Our present exhibition is no place for the moribund. It is one that covers a range of my own experimental adventures by way of abstractions, sur-realism and what might best be called "imaginotorial researches." Gallery visitors find it either extremely interesting or utterly mad. And whether they applaud or fume it makes no difference at all to our "imaginatorium of Art", which in spite of these disruptive times hopes to continue its encouragement of artists who have the courage to be adventurous and different.

Dr. Constable's Lecture

At the John Martin's

Dr. and Mrs. John Martin have kindly consented to open their spacious house on Genius Drive Monday afternoon, February 22, for a public lecture by the Rev. William A. Constable on "Poetry and the Child." Mr. Constable, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, was for ten years a University Extension lecturer on English literature in Warwickshire before entering the Unitarian ministry. Since then he has had a wide experience, holding pastorates in New Zealand, South Africa, and Canada.

Rev. Wilma L. Constable, his wife, also an Edinburgh graduate, will illustrate the lecture with readings, including some unusual historical examples of children's poetry, as well as familiar favorites by Blake, Stevenson, Lewis Carroll and others.

Audiences in Orlando and Winter Park have already found in Mrs. Constable a reader distinguished equally for her intelligence and her beautiful diction.

Tickets for the lecture and reading are not required, a nominal admission fee being charged at the door. The proceeds will be devoted to the war work of the Winter Park Unitarian Women's Alliance.

Don't miss any copies of Winter Park Topics if you want to be informed. Leave your subscription at the Rollins Press or mail to Boas 678. Fifteen issues for $1.50.

"SAVING THE COMMISSION"

The conscientious services of every group in an American community—ministers, doctors, lawyers, teachers, merchants, bankers, realtors—are necessary to assure progress and success. The normal relationship between all these groups should be confidence and cooperation. When a service is rendered it is expected that a reasonable fee will be charged.

In the handling of real estate, however, there is sometimes a temptation to "save the commission by dealing direct." Where the Realtor has already given an owner the services of his office by listing and showing a property, such a procedure, while perfectly legal, often results unsatisfactory. Frequently it produces a greater loss to either owner or buyer than the cash "saved." It almost certainly disgruntles the Realtor and diminishes his future efforts for the owner of that property.

The Realtor is a business man who makes no claims to being a philanthropist, but it so happens that he cannot make a profit unless he makes a bigger profit for his client. His constant handling of real estate both for seller and for buyer gives him experience in intricate details that the average layman cannot expect to know. Such experience has a cash value. Anyone who goes into a real estate transaction without securing the Realtor's help is like a sick man who refuses to call a doctor.

The doctor and the lawyer charge a fee and the realtor a commission. Their charges are based on their experience and ability to protect your interest. All of them are established on a high ethical basis and are held to a strict accountability for their conduct by their National Associations.

Canada's Arts and Crafts on Exhibition

One of the most notable art events to be held in Florida is the opening Saturday afternoon at the Morse Gallery of Art at Rollins College of an exhibit of the arts and crafts of French Canada.

Representing the Canadian Government at tomorrow's opening reception will be M. Jean Bruchesi, Under-Minister of the Province of Quebec, and his wife, Mme. Bruchesi, who have made the trip to Florida especially for this occasion. The exhibit will be open from three until seven o'clock tomorrow as one of the special events of Founders' Week. It will continue to be on view to the public through March 17th.

They are to be honored this afternoon at the college when the French Club entertains with a reception from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock in La Meusin Provencale, the French House. The Baroness van Boecup, a personal friend of M. and Mme. Bruchesi, who have made the trip to Florida especially for this occasion, will be presented with President Hamilton Holt and Miss Jeannette Morse Genius, donor of the Morse Gallery of Art, Holt and Miss Jeannette Morse Genius, donor of the Morse Gallery of Art, Holt and Miss Genus, of the Morse Gallery of Art, and Miss Jeannette Morse Genius, donor of the Morse Gallery of Art.

The exhibition has been secured for Rollins through the efforts of Miss Jeannette Morse Genius, donor of the Morse Gallery of Art. It was arranged through the cooperation of the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, and the Provincial Art Gallery in Quebec.
